Applying Adult Learning Principles Online and in the Classroom

Two-Day Certificate Program

Applying Adult Learning Principles Online and in the Classroom provides a succinct and powerful two-day program that will provide educators and trainers with the ability to immediately improve education, enhance adult training techniques and produce a return on investment. This program is offered exclusively by the International Association for Continuing Education and Training (IACET), one of the world's top non-profit education and training accreditation organizations.

If you are in charge of adult training education programs and train people one at a time, in large groups, or online, this seminar provides critical knowledge on adult learning concepts and instructional design.
